Our U.S. branches combine the resources of a multi-billion dollar corporation and the value of local representation, local management and community relationships.

* Based on Annual Report 2015 for the year ended March 31, 2015

Through our Communication Continuum approach, we assess your four primary forms of communication spaces to improve business processes, staff productivity, operating costs and much more through personalized support, best practices and top-notch technology. We take proactive measures to keep you informed on the latest technology and help ensure your current technology meets the ever-changing demands of your business.

SBS has continued to experience year-over-year growth and has expanded the SBS direct branch network in more locations.

OUR APPROACH

It's not what we do, but how we do it that makes us different. Our consultative approach, The Communication Continuum, helps your company drive business success faster by recommending best practices and the right technology in four primary spaces of communication – Document, Imaging, Collaboration and Network – to boost communication with employees and clients. Together, we embark on a discovery process and determine what you'd like to accomplish in each space. We then start the Communication Continuum process in the space that makes the most sense for your organization.
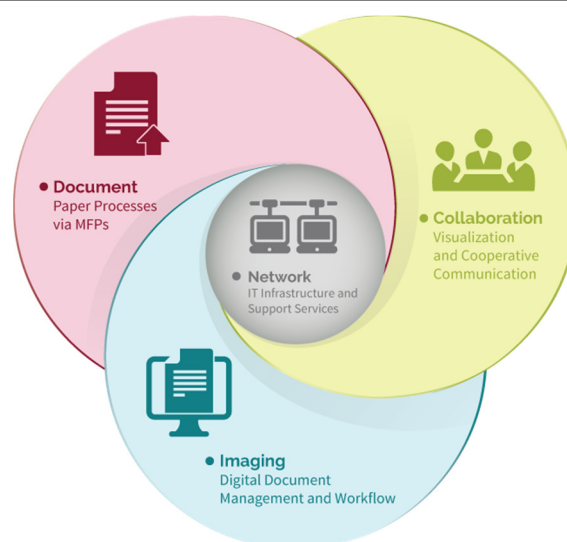

Document Space

Printing, scanning and copying are routine tasks, but when a device is down so is productivity and excessive printing is pricey. Our print analysis uncovers your total cost of ownership (TCO) for printing and allows us to optimize your Document space to:

- Improve paper processes via printing devices
- Match the pace of your workforce with a right-sized fleet
- Strategically place devices to reduce redundancy
- Lower print-related costs by curbing excessive printing
- Reduce security and compliance risks by safeguarding devices and data
- Increase uptime with proactive device support and maintenance

Imaging Space

Once you are ready to transition from paper to digital documents, we enter the Imaging space. Our capture solutions scan and file documents into an electronic library and can set automated workflow patterns to process "paperwork". By implementing an imaging strategy your organization can:

- Prevent losing paperwork by digitizing documents
- Minimize security concerns related to exposure of confidential documents
- Access files remotely from mobile devices like tablets and smart phones
- Enhance customer service and internal processes with faster access to files
- Setup electronic workflows to efficiently approve and process documents

Collaboration Space

Our assessment process in the Communication space begins with your team. Together, we identity your communication challenges and find out what your ideal communication structure looks like. Our specialists support this vision by helping you:

- Take team meetings to the next level with interactive, multifunctional presentation systems
- Host virtual meetings to save on travel expenses using cloud video conferencing solutions
- Communicate a consistent company message using eye-catching professional displays
- Target customers in lobbies, malls, airports and trade shows with engaging digital content
- Access files "on-the-go" from anywhere with cloud document sharing services

Network Space

Your technology and company data reside on your network. Our network assessment helps you understand the health of your network and connected devices to detect risks and determine the next steps you want to take. Our professional IT services can support your IT department or provide full support if you need it so you can:

- Have peace of mind and less downtime through 24/7/365 remote monitoring
- Get proactive monitoring to flag potential issues before they spiral out of control
- Ensure quick revival of your network following unplanned downtime
- Access a US-based, round-the-clock help desk to alleviate your IT staff's workload
- Know files, emails and reports are backed up and protected through disaster recovery services

We realize you have several options to consider when selecting an office technology provider. When you choose Sharp Business Systems, you get a provider that understands your organization's technology needs and a local company backed by Sharp, a pioneer in technology for over a century. Other companies may provide similar products, but what makes us unique is our vast range of office equipment, proAV products, software applications and professional services blended with our desire to craft solutions that improve the way you do business. Our technology offerings can bolster communication in your lobby, departments, server room and beyond.
