2. Overview of Alabama Community College System

The Alabama Community ACCS System (ACCS) is Alabama’s gateway to world-class, affordable education and technical training for the necessary skills to compete in a constantly evolving workforce. The system consists of 25 community and technical colleges, including the Alabama Technology Network, and Marion Military Institute – one of five junior military colleges in the nation. The Alabama Technology Network (ATN) is a part of the ACCS and the Manufacturing Extension Partnership.

Tuition at Alabama’s community colleges is less than half the cost for the same core, academic courses as those taught at four-year universities in the state. More than 168,000 people choose to study through ACCS each year.

Our student body extends well beyond “traditional age” college students, prospective high school graduates and their parents. We also serve adults, including displaced workers, career-changers, those who never attended college or who are returning to meet a career goal. Our dual enrollment programs engage current high school juniors and seniors in college credit-bearing courses they can take as part of their high school curriculum.

ACCS is governed by the Alabama Community College System Board of Trustees.

The Alabama Community College System provides:

- General education and other collegiate programs at the freshman and sophomore levels prepare students for transfer to four-year institutions to complete baccalaureate degrees.
- Adult Education focuses on improving individuals' skills, productivity and training with GED preparation and testing, basic skills, and English as a Second Language.
- Workforce development initiatives provide customized, flexible, short-term training programs that are responsive to industry needs—from highly specialized training to programs that help prepare entry level employees to meet growing demands.

Mission:

To provide a unified system of institutions dedicated to excellence in delivering academic education, adult education, and workforce development.

Vision:

To develop an educated, prosperous population by providing an affordable pathway to help citizens of any walk or stage of life succeed through quality education and training; a community college system where education works for all.

Values:

- Integrity
- Excellence
- Accessibility
- Accountability
- Diversity

Organizational History:

ACCS is a public system of 24 community colleges dispersed across the state, ATN, and a central system office that provides coordination, back-office support, and some centralization of functions. The system is governed by a single board of trustees and led by a chancellor. Each college is independently accredited and is led by a president.

For most of its history, ACCS was a department within the State of Alabama and was subject to State administration and management.

Major legislation in 2015 changed the governance of the system by establishing an independent, self-governing, public system of comprehensive community colleges under a Board of Trustees.
